第 4 問より抜粋

次の英文を読んで、それぞれの質問として最も適切なものを答えなさい。

Good morning. Today I'd like to talk about recycling. Do you know how many trees are used annually to produce paper for our daily use? We use paper napkins, paper towels, toilet paper and tissue every day. Small containers like cereal boxes are made of paper too. We use paper every day, and we throw away a large number amount of it.

But throwing away these paper products means that we are wasting many forest trees. And you may have also heard that the reduction of forests contributes to global warming. A shortage of trees allows more carbon dioxide to stay in the atmosphere, making the earth's surface hotter.

Recycling is one solution to this problem. From recycled milk cartons, for example, we can make paper that can be used in postcards and toilet paper. Recycling is something that you can do, and I can do, starting today. Just save used paper and take it to the recycling center in your community. If more people do this, there will be more trees in the forests, and we can help save the earth.
